Welcome to B'ham

Built at the turn of the century, the DeCann House overlooks Bellingham Bay and the San Juan Islands. It is conveniently located approximately one hour from both Vancouver, Canada and Seattle, Washington.

The inn offers two rooms, each with private bath, decorated with family heirlooms and treasures gleaned from over a decade of diligent collecting and "scrounging."

A stay in this historic home will introduce you to the Pacific Northwest at its best: past, present and future.

Your hosts, Van and Barbara Hudson, were teachers who restored this grand old house themselves and love to discuss her history.

Barbara is a glass hobbyist who has ornamented the house with stained glass and etchings. Van, a jack-of-all-trades, has renovated seven other older homes.

Life-long Northwest residents, they can provide local tips about shopping, clam digging or unusual out-of-the-way spots. Because they have traveled in the U.S., Europe and New Zealand, they know how to make a person on the road feel welcome.

"We are unable to accommodate pets or small children. Our guests who smoke may use the covered porches or grounds."

Plan to spend an evening at the DeCann House - talking, sipping or playing pool in the parlor. A restful night's sleep is followed by a complete breakfast featuring special egg or fruit dishes - to send you on your way with a smile!

Bellingham is a university town of 60,000 offering:

- ◆ Numerous 'junque' shops for treasure hunting
- ◆ Salt water beaches with gorgeous sunsets
- ◆ Unique museums and numerous musical and dramatic events
- ◆ Golfing, skiing, hiking and boating
- ◆ Day excursions to the San Juan Islands, Mt. Baker or Canada
- ◆ The DeCann House Bed and Breakfast
